Pricing of Buried Optical Cable Packages

Overview

Direct buried fibre optic cable is a kind of optical cable which is armoured with steel tape or steel wire outside.

Key Takeaways

Buried optical cable prices vary widely depending on type, core count, and protective features, ranging from $0. 30 to $6. 50 per meter for factory prices, with installation costs from $5,000 to $20,000 per mile.

Factory and Wholesale PricesSingle-mode fiber (OS2): $0. 30 to $2. 80 per meter, depending on core count and brand quality (generic vs. premium glass).

Multimode fiber (OM3/OM4): $1. 50 to $6. 00 per foot, reflecting higher manufacturing complexity for high-speed data applications.

Armored cables: Steel tape or wire armoring adds protection against physical damage, increasing prices to $1. 15 – $6. 50 per meter.

Bulk OE

M orders: Sourcing directly from factory distributors can reduce costs and allow customization for large-scale projects. Installation CostsDirect-buried installation: Typically $5,000 to $20,000 per mile, depending on terrain, labor, and trenching requirements. Aerial vs. underground: Aerial installation is cheaper ($8–$12 per linear foot), while underground installation is more expensive but avoids conduit costs and provides better protection.

Cost factors: Terrain, cable length, fiber count, and protective armoring significantly influence total project costs.

Additional Considerations

Cable type selection: Single-mode is preferred for long-distance backbone networks, while multimode is suitable for shorter, high-speed connections. Protection: Corrugated steel armor is recommended for direct burial to prevent damage from rodents or excavation. Supplier options: Alibaba, Made-in-China, and OEM distributors provide competitive pricing and customization options for bulk orders.

For precise budgeting, it is recommended to request quotes from multiple suppliers and consider both material and installation costs to get a full picture of the total expenditure.
