What is a reasonable price for a single-layer electrical distribution box

Overview

A typical home replacement for a 100–125A indoor panel runs about $1,200–$2,500 in parts and labor; a 200A outdoor upgrade with new meter socket can reach $3,000–$6,000. Assumptions: standard conduit routing, existing wiring reachable within 10–30 feet, and a single dwelling. Buyers typically pay for a full panel replacement, including labor, materials, and permits. The article outlines cost ranges, per-unit pricing, and practical. The cost of a new panel box depends on the box size, meter/branch requirements, enclosure type, and labor for installation. Whether you are a seasoned procurement officer or a first-time project manager, understanding the distribution box market is about more than just a price tag; it is about safety, scalability, and finding that sweet spot between “cheap” and “reliable. The price range reflects main components, installation complexity, and regional rates.
